

Customer-first mindset: PPL Electric Utilities wins ninth straight J.D. Power satisfaction award

Customers honor PPL among large utilities in Eastern U.S. for 17th time in the past 22 years

PPL Electric Utilities' residential customers continue to give their power company's performance high marks. J.D. Power recently announced that PPL won the residential customer satisfaction award for large electric utilities in the eastern United States for the ninth year in a row.

With the latest award, PPL has landed the top spot among large electric utilities in this region for 17 of the 22 years* that J.D. Power has been conducting its electric utility residential customer satisfaction study.

"This award reflects the dedication of customer-centric employees and the great customers we have the opportunity and privilege to serve," said PPL Electric Utilities President Greg Dudkin. "We'll continue to work hard to improve our service. There's no standing still."

PPL scored highest among large electric utilities in the east in four of six study factors - power quality and reliability, billing and payment, price, and customer care.

PPL also has captured 11 J.D. Power awards between 2000-2014 for electric business customer satisfaction, bringing its overall J.D. Power award total to 28.
