

PPL CFO Issues Statement on Montana Electric Supply Situation

PRNewswire
ALLENTOWN, Pa.

PPL Corporation (NYSE: PPL) said Thursday (3/15) that the ongoing discussions among officials in Montana regarding electricity supplies in the state are not expected to have any effect on the company's earnings forecast for 2001 and 2002.

John R. Biggar, PPL's executive vice president and chief financial officer, said that the company's published earnings forecasts remain solid. "We remain confident that we will meet or exceed our earnings forecasts for this year and the next," said Biggar.

He also said that the company's earnings forecast for both 2001 and 2002 took into account the various price and supply scenarios in all of the markets in which the company does business.

"We are in regular communications with legislators and the governor's office in Montana as they attempt to ensure that The Montana Power Company is in a position to live up to its responsibility of supplying electricity to customers who do not shop for a new electricity supplier," said Biggar.

"We remain confident that Montana's leaders will find a way to address the supply concerns in a way that reflects the interests of consumers and encourages investment in new power facilities. The conservative assumptions of our earnings forecasts reflect a wide range of scenarios in each of the markets in which the company operates," Biggar said.

PPL Corporation owns about 10,000 megawatts of generating capacity in the United States. About 1,150 megawatts of that capacity is located in Montana.

Biggar said that PPL EnergyPlus, which markets electricity from all PPL power plants, is expected to be one of the bidders on a request issued earlier this week by The Montana Power Company for purchase of energy from the competitive wholesale market. MPC's request for power would replace the agreement between PPL and MPC when it expires in June of 2002.

PPL Corp. generates electricity at power plants in Pennsylvania, Maine and Montana; markets wholesale or retail energy in 42 U.S. states and Canada; and delivers electricity to nearly 6 million customers in Pennsylvania, in the United Kingdom and in Latin America.
